

If the UK Government can completely ignore Scottish democracy on a big issue like EU membership, does anyone seriously think Scottish interests will matter in any other policy decision reserved to Westminster?

Lesley Riddoch, Journalist and Broadcaster

So Westminster want Scotland shut out of the EU Brexit deal, want our farmers out of business, want our parliament powerless, want our produce branded British, want 45% of our oil attributed to another region. Remind me, how is this a union of equals?
